

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation and I very much object to this blatant misuse of the airwaves.

Since Sinclair is using the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest, we would at least like to see less of large companies' idea of "what's good for the bottom line" and more of what we need for our democracy. I would like to see more substantive news about the issues in the campaign and real people from our own communities.

Sinclair's actions are shameful and show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
